Fighting hunger on
6 continents with more than
360 major programs
focused on:

- Volunteering
- Sharing Sodexo Knowledge
- Food Donations
- Financial Donations

Our STOP Hunger initiative mobilizes our employees to work in their communities and engage with local partners to help the one billion people who suffer from hunger and malnutrition.

Sharing Sodexo Knowledge

We are committed to providing nutrition, food safety, food waste education, and job and life skills training to help break the cycle of poverty in locations such as:

- South America, where Sodexo nutritionists teach healthy eating habits and good hygiene in remote communities through cooking demonstrations that culminate with participants enjoying the final products.
- Children's shelters in North America, where Sodexo conducts nutritional assessments and provides recommendations to shelter staff for improving the children's health and wellness.
- Food bank networks in Europe, where Sodexo provides culinary job training and offers employment to select trainees with personalized tutoring and training after hiring.

Volunteering

Sodexo employees volunteer at hunger relief organizations in their communities all year long. Among thousands of activities taking place, you'll find:

- Sodexo employees in Australia holding food drives and sorting food at local hunger relief organizations.
- Communities in South America where Sodexo employees donate and help plant fruit trees, and then teach community members to care for and harvest the trees as a source of nourishment and entrepreneurship.
- Teams in North America painting, cleaning, landscaping, and repairing shelters, food banks, and community centers that are often too busy providing for their beneficiaries to perform normal maintenance.

Financial Donations

We proudly sponsor and support the efforts of hunger relief programs in our local communities, such as:

- Supporting organizations in Africa that work in rural areas to improve literacy rates and provide education for girls.
- Ensuring that children in orphanages in Asia receive proper education, food, and clothing through funding from a trust established by Sodexo employees.
- Sponsoring underprivileged students in South America to learn about agriculture and food production and put their lessons to use while working in gardens that provide much-needed vegetables for local hunger relief organizations.

Food Donations

Our teams donate perishable and non-perishable food and meals to hunger relief organizations through efforts that include:

- Distributing hot meals to the homeless and low-income families in Europe, from the disabled to the elderly to single-parent families receiving help from social assistance programs.
- Cooking meals and delivering them, along with encouragement and thanks, to food bank workers in Asia.
- Donating perishable food to national food bank networks in North America and ensuring it makes it safely into hungry mouths through jointly created food handling procedures.
