Nicola Morris appointment strengthens Sodexo's corporate services team

18 May 2018

Sodexo, the world's largest services company, has appointed Nicola Morris as divisional managing director and head of food within its corporate services business.

Nicola joined on 1 May and has assumed responsibility for a number of Sodexo's large corporate accounts and the company's contract portfolio in London. Nicola will also lead in the delivery of the UK corporate services food strategy and joins the executive team for corporate services UK & Ireland.

Nicola joins Sodexo from Compass where she gained vast experience in operations, marketing, business development, business excellence and customer experience.

David Bailey, CEO, Corporate Services, Sodexo UK & Ireland, said: "We are delighted to have Nicola join our team. Nicola brings extensive experience from the industry and together with our two other divisional managing directors, Sam Scott and Lee Morgan, we have a strong leadership team to support our clients and customers and our operational teams across the UK."
